Three officers of the city of Hopkinsville whose private business affairs are not interfered with by the occasional services rendered the city are to be paid $5,200 for 1914, or almost enough to employ three commissioners at $150 a month to give all of their time to the city. The actual duties of the officers named can be performed by appointed agents at a saving of $4,000 a year, or enough to pay two commissioners $2,000 each.

Dr. J. N. A conference of mayors and commissioners of second class cities was held at Frankfort Friday. Commission government has been a success in Lexington, Covington and Newport, according to the representatives, but there is still room for improvement in the opinion of those who attended the conference. SALARY ROLL
OF $25,800

Vetoed Ordinance Revising The Salaries of City Officials Goes Through.

VERY NICE RAISES FOR SOME.

Councilman Smith This Time Changes And Votes With Majority.

The Council met Friday night in adjourned session with Mayor Yost presiding for the first time.

The various annual reports filed at the last meeting were returned by the finance committee, approved and filed. A small budget of accounts for December was reported and ordered paid. The street lighting bill for three months presented in December, a part of it since the contract expired Nov. 16, was finally reported from the finance committee and allowed, amounting to $2,143.54. The money to pay this bill was turned over in a cash surplus by the retiring treasurer Jan. 3. The Treasurer's annual report to Jan. 3, showed a cash balance of $9,300.

These routine matters were soon disposed of.

The ordinance increasing some of the salaries for the terms beginning Jan. 5, 1914, which was vetoed in December by Mayor Meacham, was again introduced, changed with the section fixing the salary of the sexton of the colored cemetery placed in a separate ordinance, and both ordinances were passed. Councilman Smith, who voted against the increases before, this time voted with the four councilmen who originally passed the vetoed ordinance.

Councilman Buckner made a speech against the ordinance, pointing out that the salaries of the judge and attorney were about double those paid in several other cities larger than Hopkinsville. Councilmen Buckner and Wooldridge voted against the ordinance, which changed the present salaries, repealing ordinance in conflict. There is said to be grave doubt of the legality of the proceeding increasing salaries in the midst of a term. The ordinance carries appropriations close to the debt limit of the city under the recent decision. This with the school debt of $66,000 brings the current indebtedness for 1914 up to $91,800 less $9,300 on hand, or $82,500. The estimated revenues will be about $85,000 for 1914. The contracts for lights and water have not been renewed yet.

Upon application of Rev. C. M. Thompson for the Associated Charities, an appropriation of $350 was made out of the Latham Poor Fund income for 1914. It was also asked that the ordinance prohibiting begging be enforced and that permits now authorized be withheld.

Manager Choate, of the Ky. Public Service Co., was present and said the street lights were 500 watts, but he did not know what candle power. He said if any residences or business houses had been charged more than the franchise rates of 12 and 10 cents respectively it was a mistake not intended. Mr. Choate said the present service was being greatly improved by a new plant and he believed everything would be satisfactory in a short time.

Mayor Yost appointed Councilmen Southall and Buckner to act with him as a committee on Pardons. This committee heretofore elected by the Council under section 3500 of the charter, was not appointed by the former mayor, whose appointments of committees Dec. 1 are continued for the present.

The table below gives the salaries paid during 1913, compared with the proposed salaries for the present year:

Alex. Wells and Lucian Wilson Get Together In Card Game.

WELLS NOW IN JAIL.

Arrested By Citizens And Turned Over To Deputy Sheriff Johnson.

News has been received of a difficulty between two white men, Alex. Wells and Lucian Wilson, near Haley's mill, in the northeastern part of the county, Sunday. The particulars are meager.

The two men were playing cards Sunday and finally engaged in a fight. In the melee, one report says, Wilson rushed on Wells with a heavy stick, about six feet long, when Wells, to protect himself, drew a large knife and cut Wilson from the back part of the neck around almost to his throat. Drs. Grace and Woodson, who were called to the wounded man, pronounced the wound not only a very ugly one but exceedingly dangerous, the wound being as deep as the knife could penetrate until it struck a bone. Fortunately the knife did not reach the jugular vein.

Deputy Sheriff Johnson, when the account of the cutting was received here, started to the scene and after reaching Kirkmansville Sunday night found that two citizens had arrested Wells and had taken him to Kirkmansville where they awaited the Sheriff's coming. They turned their prisoner over to the officer, who brought him here and committed him to jail.

H. B. M. A. Gets Behind The Great Popular Movement For Commission Form.

MANY OTHER MATTERS

Of Much Importance Acted Upon At Friday Night's Meeting.

Hopkinsville Business Men's Association Friday night endorsed the commission form of governments by the decisive vote of 30 to 3, passing the following resolution offered by Geo. E. Gary:

"Resolved, that this, the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association, believing it hurtful to the standing and progress of this city of Hopkinsville to have it spread abroad that she has less than 8,000 population, therefore, be it resolved, that she should be put in the Third class where she belongs, thus giving her the commercial prestige now denied her and that the passage of a bill be secured placing her there and that during this the same session of this present legislature, that we help secure an enabling act giving Hopkinsville and the other Third class cities of Kentucky the privilege of voting on the adoption of a commission form of government."

The motion was about to be voted on without discussion, when J. E. McPherson asked that Chas. M. Meacham explain the origin of the present ward system. Mr. Meacham said it was a system devised and kept in force while the city was a much smaller town for political advantage to the Democrats, but the city's growth had made the city so easy for the Democrats to carry that it had not gone Republican since 1908 and last year gave 189 Democratic majority. He thought if county Democrats could overcome 1200 majority the city Democrats could hold their own, in view of the fact that the Republican party was almost a thing of the past and the young men were flocking into the Democratic party. This brought on an animated discussion in which Messrs. M. C. Forbes and J. T. Wall also joined, but the vote was almost unanimous when it was explained that it was not sought to legislate any man out of office during his term.

The meeting endorsed Louisville for a regional bank and A. H. Eckles, J. E. McPherson and W. T. Tandy were appointed to form the resolution.

Secretary Bleich was instructed to thank the Christian-Todd Telephone Company for removing its poles on Main Street.

Chairman Gary reported that Coal Traffic Agent, C. C. Cameron, of the I. C. Railroad, would be here this week to discuss lower coal rates for the city.

Secretary Bleich reported that Peter Fox & Sons wanted to start a creamery here if they could get the butter fat from 1000 cows. They would invest $10,000 and pay out $75,000 a year. S. L. Cowherd, Geoffrey Morgan and W. L. Gore were appointed to see what could be done.

A committee composed of Geo. D. Dalton, Chas. M. Meacham and S. L. Cowherd was appointed to wait upon the Fiscal Court and urge the erection of the tuberculosis sanatorium authorized by the people last fall.

By arrangement with Manager Shrode, Friday January 16 was designated as H. B. M. A. day at the Rex theatre. Mr. Shrode generously offered to donate all proceeds that day in excess of $40. The H. B. M. A. expects to realize a handsome sum.

Tobacco Board Of Trade Held Meeting Last Week At Their Office.

ABERNATHY AGAIN ELECTED

Endorse Louisville's Claim For A Regional Bank Unanimously.

The Hopkinsville Tobacco Board of Trade met last Wednesday and transacted much important business. The Board of Trade is composed of the warehousemen and buyers on the local market.

The board elected officers for the coming year, as follows:

R. E. Cooper, President.
J. T. Thomas, Vice-President.
H. H. Abernathy, Sec. & Treas.

Mr. Abernathy was re-elected Inspector, receiving the unanimous vote of the board.

This is the third year of service by Mr. Abernathy and no other name for the position was before the board at the last meeting.

Mr. Abernathy is recognized as one of the most efficient and attentive inspectors that the city has ever had and his selection for a third consecutive year is a just tribute to his worth. His position is one of great importance, as all tobacco in the hogshead market is inspected by him and the contents of the hogshead is sold by the sample drawn by him.

Before adjournment the board unanimously endorsed Louisville's claim for a regional bank.

From Tennessee.

Miles Farmer, of Montgomery county, Tenn., has moved to Christian county to make his home. Not long since he bought from Mrs. Irvin Cayce the farm on which she has lived for many years, containing 114 acres. Mrs. Cayce has moved to her other farm, known as the Hill place.

12 to be announced later.

The Finn bill, enlarging the powers of the Railroad Commission, was endorsed and M. L. Elb, J. F. Bible and Geo. E. Gary appointed to notify Mr. Finn of the willingness to aid in passing the bill.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved, that this Hopkinsville Business Men's Association in regular meeting do hereby unanimously express their endorsement of and extend their aid towards the passage of the bill presented to the Legislature enlarging the powers of the present Railroad Commission.

Resolved Further, that we especially urge upon the State Legislature the importance of conferring upon the State Railroad Commission the power to re-adjust and regulate joint freight rates; the right to assess a fine against the railroad for failure to furnish cars in reasonable time; the power to prohibit railroads from changing their rates without reasonable notice to shippers; the power to prohibit a railroad when it fixes a given rate in competition with a water carrier from increasing that rate after water competition has been eliminated; the power to compel a carrier to perform its local duties through the instrumentality of the courts, placing the subject matter pertaining to same under the supervision and regulation of the Railroad Commission.

Be it further resolved that our representatives in the upper and lower branches of the Legislature be instructed to use every means in their power to aid the Commission in securing this much needed legislation.

BIG 3-STORY BUILDING

One Of The Probabilities Before The Year 1914 Grows Old.

ROOMS FOR COUNTY OFFICIALS

Armory, Band Room, Vaults And Many Other Needed Apartments.

When Christian county, more than 35 years ago, completed its new court house, the old one having been burned by Gen. Lyon in the fall of 1864, it was thought that the building was adequate for all needs. It was adequate for that day, but is not for the present.

Every frequenter of the court house when Circuit Court is in session knows full well that half-a-dozen jury rooms and consultation rooms are needed. The court cannot well do without more rooms. Often, both jury rooms and the single consultation room are in use, and when witnesses have to be segregated there is no place to put them until they are called to testify. This paper has called attention to this more than once.

But there is a chance and a probability of the Fiscal Court's taking steps in the matter during this year.

A representative of this paper approached one of the most active and progressive members of the Fiscal Court a few days since and was told that he believed the present court is composed of men who will fully measure up to the demands of the day and that before many months the court would get together on a plan, not for enlarging the court house, but to build an annex, and thus furnish all the officers of the court with quarters and also to give Judge Hanbery the rooms he so much needs.

The member of the court did not go into general details but gave a brief outline of what he hopes will be accomplished by the Fiscal Court during the year, which, briefly, is as follows:

The old clerk's office is to be torn down and in its place a large and handsome brick building, three stories high, will be erected.

This building will contain, in addition to the half-dozen jury and consultation rooms, quarters for the Superintendent of county schools, the Assessor, a room for the county court to hold its sessions, rooms for the Assessor, the Road Engineer, the Trustee of the jury fund, the Road Supervisor, the County and Commonwealth Attorneys, the Constable and several other officers that now have to "sponge" on others for room.

The second floor will probably be arranged for an armory. The court well knows that the Kentucky State Guard is something that will continue, if not for all time, until many generations have passed. The court has to provide an armory for the military company. There is no way of avoiding it. The county and city have to pay every year from $350 to $450 for a room in which the company can drill and store its arms and equipments. When the new building is erected this yearly drain on the county treasury will be at an end. There is no question about the soldier boys being located in the new building, the floor best adapted for the purpose is the only undecided point.

And then there's the outlay of about $150 a year for a practice room and storage room for the Third Regiment band. This body is another part of the State and National Guard and the county has to take care of the members. The quarters of the band will be, most probably, be on the third floor.

Another great demand cannot long-

Business, Not Friendship.

The friendship that keeps a ledger
and is always balancing accounts is not friendship at all. The fear that one may give more to his brother than he receives from him, that must have every favor returned as though it were a loan, every gift, visit, invita-

back in kind—that may be a pleas-

MANY JEWS ARE FARMING.

In Fifteen States They Have Agricultural Federations.

One would hardly expect a race of shopkeepers to make a success of farming, but that is exactly what the Jews of America are doing. The convention of the Federation of Jewish Farmers of America in New York city, from November 16 to 19,
served to call attention to the fact that the Jews in this country are in increasing numbers leaving the city
for the country, and what is more,
are succeeding in their new environment by exerting there the same industry and painstaking care that have made them successful as merchants. After all, farming is only a business, and business methods properly applied are certain to bring results in the field as in the shop.

The Federation of Jewish Farmers
organized four years ago to "improve the material and social position
of Jewish farmers," has now 51
branches in 14 states, with a membership of more than 500. Two hundred delegates were present at the convention and exchanged views on the practice of their profession, and
on less palpable but important matters concerning the position of the Jews in American society.

The Hebrew farmers have adopted
all the up-to-date labor-saving equipment of their neighbors, and have gone a step further than some in forming cooperative systems of fire insurance and credit, which might be imitated to advantage, and which incidentally furnish another illustration of the "one-for-all" and "all-for-
one" spirit that centuries of persecution have inculcated in the race.

Four years ago the Jews organized the first agricultural credit union in America. They now have 17 of these unions, with an aggregate capital of $6,165 and a total loan record of $73,624. Their net profits have amounted to $1,317, which is a rate of more than 13 per cent. yearly on their capital. The unions have been formed by the sale of shares to the extent of $500 or more among members and by the advancement of $1,000 to each union by the Jewish Agricultural and Industrial Aid Society.

Charter For Third Class Cities.

Hopkinsville and some of the other third-class cities in Kentucky wish to adopt the commission form of government. A bill enabling cities of that class to discard their present system of government will be offered in the Legislature.

The bill has been drafted along the lines of the Lexington charter for second-class cities, with some modifications that are necessary, owing to the difference in population. The tentative draft of the charter calls
for no fewer than two and no more than four commissioners, besides the Mayor, who also is to act as a commissioner. This will make the number of commissioners from three to five, to fit the requirements of the several cities of the third class. The salaries are to aggregate not less than $5,000 annually for three commissioners and not more than $10,- 000 annually for five commissioners.

It is provided that a City Judge is to be elected along with the commissioners, his salary to be fixed by the commissioners. The Mayor and City Judge are to hold office for four years and the other officials for two years. The bill makes it optional
whether both Mayor and City Judge, or either of them, may also be elected commissioners, thus constituting two out of the three or five members of the commission.

The affairs of the city are to be divided into the six departments of Public affairs, Public Finance, Public Safety, Public Works, Public Property and Public Health. The Board of Commissioners is to determine the functions of each department and prescribe the duties of each commissioner and other employes. It may assign any commissioner or employee to one or more departments, and may make all rules
and regulations as to the conduct of the various departments. The commissioners are to transact the entire business of the city, employing such assistants as may be necessary, these assistants to be known as agents and not as officials. The commissioners are to have offices in the city building, where they shall be found at all reasonable hours, and shall make the affairs of the city their exclusive business.

Other provisions of the bill are about the same as those in the charter for second-class cities. Hopkinsville has taken the lead in the movement, and the measure has been drafted by a committee of business and professional men. It seems to have been carefully considered, and doubtless, in the essential points, will be satisfactory
to the other third-class cities, Owensboro, Henderson, Frankfort, Bowling Green and Middlesboro. This will be determined in conferences of representatives of these cities, and there is every reason to believe that the bill will be passed. Hopkinsville, especially, is desirous of trying the new form of government, and the Legislature should give it the power to do so.—Courier-Journal.

STILL EAGER FOR LECTURES

Idea That People Have Abandoned
Interest in Them Easily Proved Erroneous.

“The palmy days of the lecture platform.” When were they? Most folks would guess before the war, when Ralph Waldo Emerson demanded five dollars a night and a tip of four quarts of oats for his horse, or a little later when Eli Perkins used to say all the asked was F. A. M. E. (fifty and my expenses. Wiser ones will point to the time between 1872, when Henry Ward Beecher got his first $1-000 fee, and 1890, when Major Pond paid Henry M. Stanley $100,000 for 100 lectures. They will cite Mark Twain, John B. Gough, P. T. Barnum
and a long list of old timers that got from $500 to $1,000 a night in that period, and they will tell you that those times have gone.

Maybe they have, but the lecture platform hasn't. Those who doubt it may find food for thought in the fact
that two of the oldest lyceum bureaus,
recently combined, are actually doing
a business of more than $1,000,000 a year, mainly west of the Mississippi.
This one combination furnishes lecturers and entertainers during the season to at least 12,000 cities and towns,
where the audiences aggregate 2,000-000 people annually. Add to this the Chautauques, that has courses in more than a thousand localities, attended by over a million people. It doesn't look as if lecturing were dying out.

For instance, on the list of one of the leading lyceum bureaus we find Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh lecturing on the reform of legal procedure, Dr.
Harvey W. Wiley on pure food, Edward Amherst Ott on hereditary and advanced marriage legislation, and
Hon. Frank J. Cannon on Mormonism.

Major Pond “broke into” the lyceum
business in the '70s with Anna
Eliza, nineteenth wife of Brigham
Young, lecturing on the same subject.

The lecture platform has changed since then. Individual fees are not so high, but the business never offered better chances to the would-be entertainer than right now.—Baltimore

Big Estates Dissolving.

Gradually the vast estates of the landed and titled aristocracy of Great Britain are dissolving under the sun
of increasing power and rights of democracy. The latest scion of nobility to dispose of portions of his land is the duke of Grafton, who has decided to dispose of all his estates, excepting that in Norfolk. The property includes thousands of acres in Northamptonshire, including the family seat of Wakefield lodge. The land is some of the most valuable in England, and has been in possession of the family
hundreds of years. Another nobleman, who has decided to cut up his property, is the duke of Newcastle,
and last week land of his was sold for $115,000.

Suspensions Confirmed.

Little Laura was so quiet out in the kitchen that her mother suspected the child of some mischief.

“What are you doing, dearie?” the mother called.

“Nuffin,” Laura answered.

“But you must be doing something.”

“Are you sure?”

“Well, I isn't doin' much.”

“Tell me this instant what you are doing or mamma will have to come
with the hair brush!”

After a moment's silence the little
one replied:

“I'm just dwin' hairpins into the soap wif Marjorie's looking glass.”—

What Worried Him.

A clergyman recently engaged a boy to attend to his pony and make himself generally useful.

One of his duties was to milk a cow, but the latter, not liking the lad's clumsy method, quickly upset
him, with the pail of milk on top of him.

The minister appearing on the scene, and finding the boy in tears,
said to him:

“Never mind, my boy, it's no use
crying over spilt milk.”

“Aa's not crying over your auld milk,” the boy replied, “but just look at me clothes!”

Saving Money for Her.

Miss K. was visiting in a small village, and planned to leave on a certain day for her home in a nearby
town. Wishing to postpone her departure, she wrote a message and gave it to Uncle Silas, a village celebrity, to send by telegraph and handed him 25 cents for costs. On his return he brought her 24 cents.

“Why, what is this?” she asked.

“Waal,” drawled Uncle Silas, “I read
yer message, 'n' thar warn't no haste
about it, so I writ it on a post card,
'n' it only cost yer one cent 'stid er
twenty-five.”

Small Terrier Makes Record In Hunting Contest—10,336
Bagged.

A five-week rat hunt in Union township, Ohio, ended when the 213 men and boys engaged in the contest produced 10,336 rat tails.
The losers gave a dinner to the winners.

One of the most remarkable figures
in the slaughter was a small rat terrier owned by J. M. Hartman.

More than 2,000 tails were from rodents killed by the animal, which made a record of thirty rats in a single shock of corn.

Another township hunt is on and it is believed that when the series of contests has ended 50,000 rats will have been killed in Hancock county.

Duty Plainest at First Sight.

There is nothing like the first glance we get at duty, before there has been any special pleading of our affections or inclinations. Duty is never uncertain at first. It is only after we have got involved in the mazes and sophistries of wishing that things are otherwise than they are,
that it seems indistinct. Considering a duty is often explaining it away.—F.

Why “Blackballed.”

The ancient Greeks used marked shells for voting, and from the Greek word ostrakon comes the English
word ostracize, that is, to shut out
by one unfavorable shell. “Blackballed” means the same thing, once upon a time white and black balls being used for secret voting.

enjoy more freedom in the matter of

girl declines two or three times as a

er be ignored. The vaults of the Clerk's offices are already filled to overflowing. The preservation of valuable records is something that must be watched. Since the court house was built the vault capacity has been increased, and yet everything is crowded now and there is no possible room for further enlargement. The member of the court we have quoted so freely says that when the court all get together that a very large and up-to-date fire proof vault with improved safes, will be a main feature.

It is not a question of convenience for court officials that enters into the plans in the mind of the Fiscal Court altogether. It is a question of necessity and economy. When the court house was built Hopkinsville prided itself on having the finest and most complete temple of justice in the State outside of Louisville, but passing years have left their records and they must be preserved; litigation has increased and the court needs more room; everything has changed in a generation and new demands are insistent. The next oldest building in the city has served its day and must give way to progress. The improvement suggested will much to the appearance of the Long Lost Auk Discovered.

A species of bird hitherto believed to be extinct, the rhinoceros auk, is to be found by thousands on Forrest Island, Alaska, according to an announcement made by Prof. Harold Heath of the zoology department of Stanford university. The auk, he said, is a nocturnal bird about the size of a large pigeon. It burrows as much as 15 feet in the ground where it makes its home.

Had Lost Place.
Gertrude, aged three, sat in her high chair at the dinner table turning about in her fingers a small ear of corn from which she had been nibbling a row at a time. Suddenly she burst into tears. BLAZE IN COUNTRY

Causes Considerable Loss to Well Known Farmer.

A combined stable and tobacco barn belonging to Bailey Van Hooser, a few miles east of the city, was destroyed by fire last Thursday night. Mr. Van Hooser lost his crop of tobacco, a lot of provender, harness, and four cows. There were two horses in the building. One of them escaped and the other one, Mr. Van Hooser believes, was stolen. The loss is probably seven or eight hundred dollars. It is thought the fire was caused by an incendiary.

Mr. Editor:

Appropos the cry of scarcity of money and retrenchment, and in view of the fact that our Board of Council at its last meeting increased the amount of money to be paid our City Attorney to the total sum of $1,500, it may be interesting to some citizens to know what the records show for the last eight years, which can be seen in the table above. It will be seen at once that this increase of nearly 25 per cent in this salary is not borne out, if based upon the plea of an annual average and I have heard of no other reason given for it.

In 1910 I understand the Mayor issued an order that all old lines should be immediately collected and all fines that by mutual agreement were being "held up" should be paid. So this to a certain extent accounts for the large amount paid Attorney Brasher and even to this day some of those old claims are being paid.

Now in view of these figures don't it seem to be something of a hardship to tax payers to have salaries increased in this way?

You will see that I have only taken into consideration the salary of the Attorney, which was increased. I don't know the facts of the other salaries increased, but I am perfectly willing to pay my part to have the city books audited by a competent expert auditor and take his statement as to the other salaries, and by the way, don't you think that all city books and offices should be examined and regular annual inspection and reports made? I know of no other business that is run without auditors and examiners reports except the City of Hopkinsville. If I am alone in my position on this matter, I am open to conviction.

Very Respt Yours,
H. H. ABERNATHY.

GOV. McCREARY

Touches Many Subjects in Message to Legislature.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 9. — Gov. McCreary's message to the legislature was read to both houses: The message is a lengthy one, and a large number of points are covered.

The principal points in the message are as follows:

The governor's watchword is economy in all departments.

Shows deficit on June 30, 1913, to be $1,799,943.

Compares this with other state deficits, and says we are not so bad off after all.

Is opposed to increase tax rate or issue state bonds.

Urges creation of a state tax commission to consist of three men.

Recommends in addition to commission that auditor, treasurer and secretary of state be members of the tax commission until June 1916.

Refers to the reduction in assessments of railroads and favors a plan of assessments and taxation that will require all corporations in the state to pay their just proportion of taxes.

Congratulates state on progress in education, but urges increase from six to seven months in rural school terms.

Suggests course in agriculture for the schools.

Asks uniform text book law.

Comments favorably upon the condition of state normal schools.

Refers to the reduction in illiteracy in the state, but says it has been slow and urges efforts to improve conditions.

Praises the State Fair, and says it should be given all proper encouragement.

Favors arbitration in labor disputes.

Favors a workman's compensation law.

Urges a uniform accounting law for state.

Approves corrupt practice act providing for publicity of campaign funds.

Compliments the Department of Public Roads and says the state should continue the progressive policy toward the roads.

Approves the state banking department, and tells of good work done by it.

Compliments the work of the prison commission and the reforms instituted by the present board.

Praises State College and the administration of the state asylums.

Asks appropriations of nearly $20,000 for completion of the governor's mansion, and also urges proper appropriation for representation at the Panama Exposition.

Compliments the state health board and points to the success of the anti-tuberculosis campaign.

Declares the state game and fish commission not only self-supporting during its first year, but that it shows a surplus.

Commends forestry and mine inspection and the state geological survey.

AMUSEMENTS.

The San Antonio, Texas, Light has the following in reference to "The Rosary," the bill for Holland's Opera House tonight:

"Brightened up considerably, and with more artistic scenery and the most evenly balanced and probably the most capable cast that has ever appeared here in this production, 'The Rosary' played to two appreciative audiences at the Grand Opera House yesterday afternoon and last night. That this drama, now four years old, has lost nothing in emotional appeal was shown by the silent tears that stole down many a cheek at each performance yesterday.

The cast was well balanced in every sense of the word, the members being of a congruous height as well as possessing almost equal histrionic ability.

The general effect is made stronger by more elaborate settings, and the play "goes" with greater facility by virtue of a number of revisions in the lines. All the members of the cast play their roles most naturally, this being especially applicable to Miss Bethel Barth, who has the part of Mrs. Wilton."

Are You One Of Those Who Habitually Catch Cold?

Investigation Shows That Certain Occupations and Professions Are Constantly Prolific Causes For Frequent Colds.

What Can Be Done About It?

We read a lot of medical literature that only entertains, but does not instruct. In this strenuous period, when life is put to such a severe strain, we need light and facts how to prevent disease more than talk that entertains.

Do you know that the clerk and the shop girl, the merchant and the professional man, confined to sedentary work, are daily creating those conditions that conduce to colds?

Mental fatigue, worry, heavy strain, nervousness resulting from desk or store work are the easiest means for the development of colds. The average life of a clergyman is less than that of a farmer—cause, sedentary work.

Sedentary life, especially where it means the consumption of brain tissue, often leads to over-eating; there is no more common cause of colds than over-eating.

When the digestive organs are weighed down with an excess of food, the liver and kidneys and other important vital organs are overworked, vitality is lower and there is less resistance; slight exposure, which under ordinary conditions causes no harm, results in a bad cold.

To relieve a cold, a good expectorant or cough remedy such as PERUNA should be conveniently at hand to be taken at the very first attack of the cold. But what can be done to stop the frequency of colds to such people that are confined to sedentary work?

Start with a cold water towel bath, walk to your place of business, or devote an hour of each day to outdoor life, take a dose of PERUNA before each meal to tone up your system, eat moderately, retire early and sleep in a room full of fresh air.

Mr. L. A. Richardson, a substantial druggist from Marine, Illinois, commenting on the merits of proprietary medicines, writes as follows:

"I have been engaged in the retail drug business here for the past forty years. During this time I have seen many patent medicines come into use, flourish for one or two years and then gradually disappear. There are very few of these remedies that possess enough real merit to insure them long life. Peruna has always been a good seller with us, with a marked increase from year to year. The change in the formula some years ago, by the addition of the slightly laxative properties, has made it a reliable remedy for constipation and for colds. I take pleasure in urging my brother druggists to recommend it for these two ailments."

Those who wish to begin the cold water towel bath should have a copy of the Ills of Life. Sent free by the Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio.

"'BOUT DAS MOON"

Isidore Wanted to Know What Makes the Moon Come Up.

By F. H. LANCASTER.

Isidore sat on the front steps smoking twilight cigarettes in thoughtful sequence. The moon was rising and he looked at her as he smoked, but he was not thinking of the moon. He was thinking of Isabelle, the beauty of the school and the head of his class. Before school opened he and Isabelle had been good friends, but since they had come to sit together in the same class every day she had treated him with marked indifference. Why? Because she had found out that she was smarter than he was?

Monsieur's hearty voice broke into the uncomfortable conclusion, saying jovially:

"Ha, Isidore! What das you tink 'bout so hard?"

"I was tink 'bout das moon," Isidore told him promptly. "What 'tis make her come up, ha?"

Madame spoke up gently: "Voila, 'Dare. Why you don't ask teacher das?"

Isidore paused. Teacher was a young woman with a long nose and glasses that glittered. Truly, not a person to be questioned lightly. And to do it with Isabelle looking on disdaining his ignorance—mais arretez. "Maybe 'tis Isabelle don't know why 'tis moon come up!"

And if Isabelle did not know, and if he could find out, and then spring the knowledge on her—But yes! It would be worth working for. Voila. As the possibilities of the situation became clear to him, Isidore realized that it would be worth waylaying teacher for.

So it chanced that as the teacher was walking home from school next day she saw one of her tall boys coming toward her with a determination in his stride.

"I can ask you somet'ing, if you please, and you won't tell anybody what 'tis I ask you?"

"What is it you wish to ask?" teacher almost stammered.

"What 'tis made das moon come up?"

"Moon! Oh, yes, moon! What is it that makes the moon come up? Oh, yes! I understand. I—I think that I can explain that. Let's see." She cast about for a substitute for a "solar system," and Isidore watched her anxiously. "Suppose teacher didn't know!"

"Wait," she said, "I have it."

She took her watch from her belt and her ring from her finger.

"Now you know, Isidore, the earth is bigger than the moon—"

"Mais oui, I know das," Isidore hastened to assure her.

"Well! Then we will call this watch the earth and this ring the moon—and here is the way the moon goes around the earth. Comes up this way—goes over this way—goes down this way—comes up again. When you are sitting on the earth like my thumb is on the watch here you would see the moon coming up—"

"C'est bon. Just like steer come up hill. First you see his horns, den you see his legs—Mais, why 'tis she don't fall down when she's straight up yonder?"

But the teacher knew this also.

"She goes too fast to fall," she explained, smoothly "Like when you throw your ball over the school-house."

"Just like das! Mais oui. Now 'tis I know. And, me, I'm glad I know das. Je vous remercie."

He was glad and grateful—and triumphant. It did not seem at all probable that Isabelle possessed such knowledge. Isidore watched the teacher readjust her belongings with respect, and when the ring slipped and fell he stooped with eager gallantry and returned it to her with something warmer than respect. Teacher's nose, he thought, did not look so long, nor her glasses so shiny. And he was ready for Mademoiselle Isabelle. Let her snub him some more tomorrow.

Eh bien, Isabelle did not snub him on the morrow. She did not see him. With her head up and her lashes down she could not see Isidore, even when he stood right in front of her. But everybody else in the school could see him. See him, yes, and smile at his discomfort.

"Mais what 'tis I been do?" Isidore pondered. "No, I ain't been do no'ting unless it is—" and the thought made him jump—"unless 'tis das teacher tell."

Had teacher told? She boarded with Isabelle's mamma. Had she told Isabelle about the moon? Isidore looked sharply at the suspected young woman and he saw that her nose was long—too long to be trusted—and that there was a cold glitter about her glasses that held no promise to a high sense of honor. Teacher had told!

Mais voila! How was he to know? Ask Isabelle! The answer jumped at him from the pages of the spelling book and shook him until his breath came in gulps, but by the time school was dismissed Isidore knew it. Knew, yes, that a man will go farther for vengeance than he would dare to go for love. And his stride was steady and his voice was firm when he overtook Isabelle as she came from the store that Isabelle lifted her head and her eyes blazed.

"Been tell?" she uttered.

"Yes," he insisted. "What 'tis?" Isabelle recovered herself with still disdain.

"She ain't been tell me no'ting," she said coldly, and stepped into the grass to pass him.

Isidore was before her.

"Den how 'tis you know?" he demanded doggedly.

Isabelle's anger blazed again.

"Know," she repeated. "Maybe 'tis you tink I can't see! Ha?"

"See?" Isidore questioned. "See?" Mais what 'tis you see den?"

The beauty looked him over with burning eyes.

"What 'tis I see? Voila, what 'tis I see! I see you yesterday when you give teacher ring."

"Ring!" Isidore repeated blankly.

"Ring!" Then the joy of it came to him and he assumed serenely.

"I give teacher ring yesterday, yes, mais 'twas her ring."

Isabelle's shoulders lifted.

"Yes," she mocked, "I reckon me, 'tis her ring now and—" Something too strong for her broke off Isabelle's polite speech. Isidore's serenity fled from him.

"Non, non!" he cried. "'Twas her ring. She drop it on ground—me, I pick it—I give it to her. Mais oui! She was show me what 'tis make moon come up. And she drop it on ground. Mais oui. 'Twas like dis. I meet teacher come from school and I ask her, me, 'What 'tis make moon come up?' And she show me how 'tis. Voila! Teacher have her watch, but me, I ain't got watch, I take your hand. And we say like dis. Your hand is earth where we live and dis ring—Isidore drew forth a silver one bought a year ago when his hopes were high—and dis ring will be like de moon. And she go round and round de earth—Comme-ca? Teacher say moon go so fast she can't fall down on earth, mais Dis moon, she don't go so fast like das. Voila, elle la tombe de sur notre doigt."

And the ring was on Isabelle's slim brown finger, shining softly there in the falling light. Isabelle looked at it and Isidore looked at her, and softly through the woods there came reaching to them mystical beams of magic beauty what touched the bent heads with tenderness and lay like a promise of peace on the locked young hands. Isabelle drew a breath.

"Voila," she whispered, "La lune."

Isidore did not look round.

"Yes," he said, "she come up, mais dis moon—he kissed the ring shyly—"dis moon, she—stay still."

HIS CIGAR WAS DISTASTEFUL

Man Accosted on Railroad Platform
Not Sure of Other's Society, But Certain of His "Twofer."

"I hope my society is not disagreeable to you," remarked the man who was smoking a "twofer" to another man who rather hastily moved over to the other side of the station platform
when he got a whiff of the first man's cigar.

"Not being acquainted with you,
sir," answered the man addressed, "I cannot say whether your society
would be agreeable to me or not, but as concerns that cigar you are smoking I have reached a conclusion that is final. I cannot maintain that serenity of bearing with which I am accustomed to face the daily problems of life and at the same time inhale fumes that induce in me an acute sensation of nausea."

Fancy and Fact.

"So you managed to propose to that girl at last?" said one young man.
"Yes; but the dialogue wasn't anything like what I had figured out. I intended to say: 'Hortense, I have long regarded you with the affection
such as a man feels for but one woman
in the world—the woman he would make his wife. Will you be mine?'
And I thought she would say something like this: 'Harold, I feel that I can trust my future happiness to
you.'"

"That sounds fine."
"Yes. But what took place? I showed her the engagement ring and said 'Huh?' And she just said 'Uh-huh!' and put it on."—Washington Star.

USUAL WAY.

Mrs. Gotrocks—I am sure Mrs. No-koyne's husband is on the verge of bankruptcy.

Mrs. Richsmud—Why, how do you know?

Mrs. Gotrocks—She has just ordered
seven new and very elaborate gowns,
with hats to match.

Discouraging a Bore.

"Hello, Blobs!"

"How are you, Kirkly?"

"Say, I've got a new story to tell
you."

"When did you originate it?"

"Oh, I didn't originate it. I heard it somewhere."

"Then it isn't new."

"Well—er, not exactly new."

"And long experience has taught me, Kirkly, that you never hear a story until it has traveled all over town four or five times. That's why I'm not at all enthusiastic. But fire away. What is the story?"

"Shucks! I've forgotten it now."

Capacity Underrated.

Mrs. Kindly—Now, I'll give you a dime, poor man. But I hope you will not go and get drunk with it.

The Poor Man (much hurt)—Lady,
you do me a great wrong to suggest
such a thing.

Mrs. Kindly—I didn't mean to accuse you—

The Poor Man—I'm glad of it, lady.
Do I look like a man who could get drunk on a dime?—Puck.

A Doubtful Transaction.

"I don't know whether my oldest boy is treating me right or not," said Mr. Bliggins rather gloomily. "I told him that if he wouldn't smoke until he was twenty-one years old I would give him a thousand dollars."

"Did he keep his part of the agreement?"

"Yes, but he took the thousand dollars and bought an interest in a cigar
store."

Living in New York.

Some people have queer ideas of what it means to live in New York.

"I couldn't possibly live elsewhere
than in New York," declared one lady.

"It is the only town."

"It is a remarkable place," admitted
the visitor. "What part of the city do
you live in?"

"East Orange, N. J."

Misconstrued.

An American motoring through a small Scotch town was pulled up for excessive speed.

"Didn't you see that notice, 'Dead Slow'?" inquired the policeman.

"Course I did," replied the Yankee,
"but I thought it referred to your durned little town."—London Standard.

Between Girls.

"Anything good at the theaters next week?"

"Hain't noticed," said the other girl.

"Why?"

"If there is I'll start a quarrel with Freddy now and then he can send me a couple of matinee tickets to square himself."

DISHES FOR SUNDAY SUPPER

Something New That the Family and
the Guests Will Be Sure to Appreciate.

For a change on Sunday night try
this salad; Marinate with your favorite thin salad dressing three-quarters of a pint of any cold meat or fish (never mix meat and fish) two tablespoonfuls of capers, one egg
beaten hard and chopped, one tablespoonful each of olives, dill pickles
and pimientos, two dashes of pap-
rika, celery salt to taste; stir well.
Serve cold in two hours on lettuce
leaves garnished around the edges
with slices of hard boiled egg, sprigs
of parsley and thin slices of Swiss cheese.

Another supper dish is made of one pint of macaroni measured after boiling which is about one-third of a package, one-half pint of stewed tomatoes, to which are added two bouil-
lon cubes, one gill of grated rich
cheese, two tablespoonfuls of chopped
bacon and one of bacon fat, one tablespoonful of minced onion, one tablespoonful of chopped parsley; salt
and pepper to taste. Rub a baking dish with bacon fat. Mix all ingredients thoroughly, put them into the baking dish, brown in a hot oven.

Both dishes are satisfactory served
with graham toast.

PROPER WASHING OF TOWELS

Those Used in the Kitchen Require Especially Treatment to Be of Good Service.

Towels used in the kitchen should always be rinsed in moderately cool
water and then washed in hot, soapy water. They should be rinsed and then dried in the open air. If time is at premium they need not be ironed.
Probably this laxity would shock
many careful housewives, but a clean towel, dried in the open air, is quite as useful for drying dishes as one that is ironed smooth.

One clever woman always saves the coarse sacks that sugar and salt
come in—the big ones. She rips the side seams and hems the ends and uses them for towels for pots and pans.

A doll's clothesline, which comes with half a dozen tiny clothespins and two small pulleys, is a convenience for drying kitchen towels. It can be fastened from the kitchen porch to a nearby tree, and extra clothespins can be bought for a small price. The pulleys, rope and six pins are sold
for ten cents.

Stewed Apples.

In cooking apples it may not be known generally that the more quickly
they are cooked after paring the richer and better they are. An apple begins to be discolored as soon as the skin
is removed, and this discoloration continues in the cooking. As quickly after paring as possible, put half a dozen apples, sliced, into a pan with two-thirds as much water as the bulk of the apples. Cover them and let them cook as rapidly as possible.
Watch them closely to prevent burning, and just as they are falling to pieces put into them two-thirds of a cup of sugar, stirring it quickly. They are delicious also served cold.

Creamed Cod in Potato Case.

Boil and mash six good sized potatoes, add one egg, a gill of milk,
salt and pepper to taste and beat until light. Pick and scald one pound of boneless salt cod, drain and scald again. Now press fish until dry. Put one large tablespoon butter in a frying pan and add two tablespoons flour.
Mix and add one pint of milk. Stir till it thickens and add pepper to taste. Grease a pudding mold and line bottom and sides with the potato. Add the cod to the cream and fill the center. Cover the top with potato and bake a nice brown. It may be served in the dish it was baked in or turned out.

Baking Powder Biscuit.

Into a mixing bowl put two cups
sifted flour, one level teaspoon salt,
four level teaspoons baking powder. Mix and sift several times, rub in two level tablespoons butter or one of butter and one of lard, till fine
and mealy. Wet with one cup of milk and mix into a stiff dough. Toss onto a well-floured board and pat out
with rolling pin, using flour enough on board to prevent sticking. Bake in hot oven from 10 to 15 minutes.

English Tea Biscuits.

To one cup hot mashed potato add half cup sugar and one yeastcake, dissolved in half cup lukewarm water.
Cover and let rise; then add half a cup each of butter and sugar, two eggs well beaten, one teaspoon salt
and three and one-quarter cups of flour. Knead, again let rise, shape, let rise again. Brush over with sugar and bake in modern oven. And, if liked, half cup of raisins, cut in pieces
or currants.

Simple Jelly Bag Strainer.

Another old method of straining jelly by hanging the bag on a broom handle between two chairs might be banished from the efficient kitchen by using a new strainer with a bag which sits on a stand on the table. A large iron ring suspends the bag, which drips into a bowl on the table. All juices can thus be strained without attention, and the muslin bag may be easily cleaned, and the strainer
packed away when not in use.

Keeping Pickles in Glass.

Pickles should always be kept in glass—never in glazed ware, as the action of the vinegar on the glazing is liable to form a poisonous compound

Without a Serious Fight
Federals Retreat to Texas Territory Across the Rio Grande.

The Mexican Federal garrison at Ojinaga evacuated that village at 10 o'clock Saturday night after a battle begun at sunset. Gen. Vil'a, with his rebel troops, immediately took possession. 2800 of the Federals and 1500 refugees sought asylum in Texas towns across the Rio Grande river, including six of the generals.

Facts About the Bible.

The middle verse of the Bible is the eighth verse of the one hundred and eighteenth Psalm. The twenty-first verse of the seventh chapter of Ezra contains all the letters of the alphabet except the letter j. The longest verse is the ninth verse of the eighth chapter of Esther. The shortest verse is the ninth verse of the eleventh chapter of St. John.

American Farmers in Lead.

It is said that American farmers use more paint on their buildings than any other farmers of the world. The people of this country paint every two years on an average, but in France, Holland and other European countries the painting is done on an average of every five years. Americans use more bright colors than any other nation.

American Forests the Best.

The original forests of the United States contained timber in quantity and variety far exceeding that found on any similar tract in the world.

Mule Killed.

One of the two mules that got tangled up in a live wire at First street and railroad, several weeks ago, was sent to a veterinarian last Saturday to be killed. The wire burned his right knee terribly and all efforts to cause it to heal were unavailing. The animal suffered great pain and killing had to be resorted to. The mule was the property of the Standard Oil Co.

Big Coal Deal.

A deal which has been hanging fire for several weeks, was finally closed at Madisonville when C. H. Murphy disposed of 5,500 acres of fine coal rights in the Manitou and Nebo country to Pittsburg capitalists. While the consideration is not given out, Mr. Murphy, who owned these rights, has realized a neat profit, it is claimed.

Cold Weather This Week.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.--Freezing weather reaching down to southern Florida was predicted today by weather bureau experts for a few days of this week.

A disturbance now near southern Alaska will cause rains and snows by the middle of the week from Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys eastward.

Over the south the weather will be generally fair during the week and in the northeast there will be no precipitation of consequence until after the middle of the week.
